Director's Message

As we complete the fifth year of our strategic alliance between the University of Warwick and the Royal College of Nursing (RCN), I am pleased to report that we are thriving.

We are delighted to be able to continue our strategic alliance going forward and have been working hard with the RCN to ensure our research helps both the RCN and the University of Warwick deliver their strategic objectives.

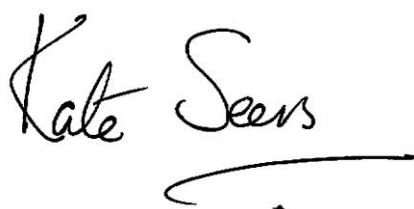

The Research Excellence Framework has been a necessary focus over the past year and staff have been productive, with 32 papers published in 2011-2012. Our work is also highly cited, with levels of career citations being described as very good or excellent for 49 and as exceptional¹ for 5 of our publications.

We have continued to value and model a collaborative inclusive approach to our research. We have been working with a range of national and international academic experts, with health care professionals and users of services as together we can deliver on a dynamic and exciting research agenda.

I would like to thank everyone in the RCN Research Institute for their hard work, rigour, collaboration, supportive approach and general good humour. It makes a big difference and I really appreciate it.

I would also like to thank everyone who has supported and challenged us throughout the year. Janet Davies, Director of Nursing and Service Delivery at the RCN and Professor Stuart Croft, Pro Vice Chancellor for Research (Arts & Social Sciences) at the University of Warwick deserve special mention as their wise counsel and challenge has helped us develop. Our Joint Advisory Board members have helped us refine and extend our research, providing constructive analysis and helping us keep on track, expertly chaired by Professor Sally Kendall.

We have many new challenges ahead in 2012-13, which we are looking forward to embracing within a framework of academic rigour, professionalism, collaboration and resilience.

Professor Kate Seers
Director

Summary of Progress

Ongoing Research

RCN RI research is organised around three themes; patient and public involvement and patient and nurse experiences; patient reported outcomes; and translating knowledge into practice. Our website has more details <http://www2.warwick.ac.uk/fac/soc/shss/rcn/research>. All ongoing research is within budget and agreed timeframes. All annual or final reports submitted as required by funders have been accepted.

Publications

The Research Excellence Framework has been a focus over the past year and staff have been productive, with 32 papers published in 2011-2012. Our work is also highly cited, with levels of career citations being described as very good or excellent for 49 and as exceptional² for 5 of our publications.

Grants

We have been successful in generating grant income, with ten externally funded grants running during the period of this report and a research income of well over half a million pounds. We continue to work collaboratively on grant applications nationally and internationally, and health professionals and users of services are important collaborators on these grants.

Measures of Esteem

Members of the RCN RI have a variety of measures of external esteem, including membership of a Research Excellence Framework panel, editorial board membership, invited plenary lectures, invited national and international scientific committees, contribution to national policy initiatives and contribution to the academic community via external examining, especially at PhD level.

PhD Students

It has been an exciting year with many interesting studies underway. One of our international full time PhD students was awarded her PhD with minor corrections. This represents much hard work and intellectual rigour as well as a long time away from family, so many congratulations to Mayada Diabes. Progress of all students is monitored by the Director of Graduate Studies and the Graduate Research Committee and is satisfactory.

Strategic Alliance

The strategic alliance between the RCN and the University of Warwick is developing well. We are delighted to be able to continue this relationship, and the progress of the strategic alliance is reviewed by our Joint Advisory Board.

Other developments

Our research strategy is continually updated, in collaboration with all members of the RCN RI. We will continue to work towards more programmatic funding rather than individual grants to increase the sustainability of the unit. We have a range of strategic collaborations both nationally and internationally.

Contribution of RCN RI to the University

RCN RI staff attend the Graduate Research Committee and the school meeting. Professor Seers is part of the School of Health and Social Studies (SHSS) executive team, is Director of Research for SHSS and has been Professor Responsible for the department since April 2012. She also attends faculty research directors' meetings and is part of a Research Excellence Framework working group. Professor Seers and Dr Hayward are part of the Faculty of Social Sciences Board. Dr Staniszewska is Director of Graduate Studies (continuing students) for SHSS, Chairs the Graduate Research Committee and is Research Staff Member of the Staff-Student Liaison Committee. She is Departmental Champion and Member of the Advisory Group for Global Prioritise Programme (Health and Technology) and Departmental Representative for ESRC Doctoral Training Centre Board. Dr Mockford is a representative on the Research Staff Forum for the School of Health and Social Studies and Deputy Representative for the Forum on the University's Research Committee. Ms Kennedy is the School's First Aider and Mr Kent is the school's Fire Marshal. The RCN RI staff also contribute as members of MPhil to PhD upgrade panels, act as exam advisors and internal examiners at Masters and PhD level, and organise and contribute to research surgeries, journal clubs and Research and Development seminars.

Contribution of the University to the RCN RI

RCN RI staff access an extensive programme of training and development within the University. They have successfully applied for internal research development funding, and Institute of Advanced Studies monies to pump prime research collaborations with international academics. This range of opportunities is funded by service charges contributed to through payment from the RCN RI. There are also many opportunities for collaboration with colleagues from a variety of departments. We have also received support and challenge from our ProVC for research in the Faculty of Social Science, which has been helpful and welcome.

Contribution of RCN RI to Royal College of Nursing

Staff have helped develop the strategic alliance with the RCN, contributing to building an authoritative body of knowledge relevant to nursing. We work closely with RCN staff and members on a number of issues. For example, working with rheumatology forum members and RCN advisers on fatigue in a long term condition; working with RCN staff around Principles of Practice, and continence issues. We also disseminate our work via our newsletter and presentations at the RCN.

Leadership

Strong strategic leadership underpins the effectiveness and culture of the RCN RI. We endeavour to model valuing and respect of all staff as we believe this is essential for a team to function well and to enable staff to develop to their full potential. Several staff have undertaken leadership programmes, to ensure effective leadership at all levels. Ensuing appropriate staff development is seen as a crucial contribution towards stability and succession planning.

Conclusion

The RCN RI remains at the forefront of knowledge generation. It has continued to thrive at the University of Warwick. Healthy grant income, high quality publications, and a good working relationship with the RCN has helped embed the strategic alliance, and concrete plans for future development are in place, working towards ensuring the sustainability of the RCN RI.
