If we don't have what you are looking for…

We can obtain journal articles from other libraries free of charge

- Articles can be scanned and e-mailed to you in 3 working days via Article Reach.
- Try this scheme first as it does not affect your Department's quota!
- If that fails Document Supply is more comprehensive
- If lockdown restrictions are lifted, we could also borrow a book from another library for you through Document Supply – scheme currently suspended
- Check the Library website for updates

New subscriptions to databases – caveats…

- We can only take out a new subscription if academic staff agree to cancel something else

- Expensive databases may be impossible to obtain at present

- Even if approval is granted, it can take a very long time to set up a new subscription…

- BUT we can sometimes gain a new resource

- Discuss the issue with your supervisor and contact me

- There may be an alternative source for the data which you seek

Finding PhD theses

- Recent Warwick theses are mostly available online in WRAP – Warwick Research Archive Portal

- Find UK and Irish online theses via EThOS – Electronic Theses Online Delivery Service

- Find details of theses more widely in Dissertations and Theses

- Warwick theses are held in print in the Modern Records Centre – find the reference number using "Library Search", then consult and photocopy it as you wish

- All UK theses are held in the British Library and at the university where they were written

- The Library can buy US and Canadian theses to add to stock - this can take over one month

Don't forget your referencing! – try EndNote Web!

Contact your academic support librarian any time!

- Request a book for purchase
- Find guidance on good available data sources
- Arrange a consultation any time (almost)
- Give the Library your feedback
