

SURVEILLE ADVISORY SERVICE

Areas of Interest

CONTENTS

- Human Rights and Hacktivism
- Privacy and the Right to be Forgotten
- Customer Profiling: The Ethical Issues
- When Should American Intelligence Services Spy on Foreign Communications?
- The Value of Privacy: American and European Approaches

HUMAN RIGHTS AND HACKTIVISM

THE UNIVERSITY OF WARWICK

POLITICS AND
INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

HUMAN RIGHTS AND HACKTIVISM

- Digilante-ism – giving people their just deserts?
- Boston Bombings: when should the public help with investigations?
- Assange, Manning and Snowden: watching the watchers?
- Democracy and Technology: empowerment or disruption?

PRIVACY AND THE RIGHT TO BE FORGOTTEN

THE UNIVERSITY OF WARWICK

---

POLITICS AND
INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

PRIVACY AND THE RIGHT TO BE FORGOTTEN

- Why want to be forgotten?
- When are we allowed to leave the past behind?
- The right to know
- Isn't more information always better?
- A right of reply?
- What are a search engine's responsibilities?

CUSTOMER PROFILING: THE ETHICAL ISSUES

THE UNIVERSITY OF WARWICK

POLITICS AND INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

CUSTOMER PROFILING

- Is privacy control over 'my' data?
- When do predictions about me invade my privacy?
- Different kinds of data
- Different kinds of invasion
- The boundaries of privacy and fair practice
- When is customer profiling discriminatory?

WHEN SHOULD AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE SERVICES SPY ON FOREIGN COMMUNICATIONS?

THE UNIVERSITY OF WARWICK

POLITICS AND INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

FOREIGN COMMUNICATIONS

- ‘Impersonal’ invasions of privacy – should we care if China is watching?
- Cosmopolitanism and ethics: are borders morally arbitrary?
- A government’s duties to its citizens
- Democratic accountability: how can the rest of the world say ‘no’?
- Assessing NSA mass surveillance

THE VALUE OF PRIVACY: AMERICAN AND EUROPEAN APPROACHES

THE UNIVERSITY OF WARWICK

POLITICS AND INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

THE VALUE OF PRIVACY

- Philosophical approaches
- The constitutional right to privacy
- Privacy in Europe
- How new technologies invade privacy
- American business in Europe